A Note From Fr. Jim Kinney

Sister Mary McGlone has a provocative and challenging take on this weekend's gospel in which the chief priests and elders, as well as- presumably- all of us, select the first son as doing the father's will.

At a time in which our Church as well as our country is divided into opposing camps, McGlone suggests looking at both sons as partiality exhibiting right as well wrong in their words and actions. She suggests that the opposing camps recognize that fact in themselves and not defend positions so much as to humbly listen to and learn from one another and in their humility seek to wed themselves more perfectly to the mind and will of God.

In our local church synods, past as well as future, let us take on a similar quest for a metanoia through the Spirit in our listening and our learning from each other. And may our bishops as they gather in Rome, we pray, be graced by such a quest this month- as well as October of next year.

Blessings, Fr. Jim
