A Note From Fr. Jim Kinney

There are various ways in which we can interpret the meaning of the "Lamb of God" John the Baptist refers to in the beginning of today's gospel. One is the sacrifice of Jesus on the cross as atonement for human sins. Another is as a declaration of faith in the real presence of Jesus in the Eucharist. But there are other ways to interpret John's declaration.

John proclaimed that Jesus would take away not "sins", the plural implying the sins or failings of each of us, but the singular "sin of the world," implying the healing of divisions and humanity's estrangement from God. The translation makes a big difference! Another issue of translation is hearing John call Jesus the "lamb" of God- the only time in the Gospels anyone called Jesus a lamb --- and that gentle image is striking coming as it did from John the Baptist, the firebrand prophet. Some scholars claim that John's use of the word "lamb" came from the Aramaic word translated as boy, child or servant. Whichever word we choose, it connotes someone gentle and almost categorically incapable of violence.

This latter connotation corresponds well with what Isaiah says about the servant of God- a servant to the coastlands and distant peoples --- to the whole world. The servant could be Christ, Israel or anyone chosen to be God's light to the nations --- or all of these. The servant relies on the strength of God, reveals God's glory, brings God's people home and offers salvation to all the earth. That's quite a vocation --- given even before birth.

The prayer that today's psalm invites us to pray with Jesus the servant is an ideal prayer for discerning a vocation and remaining faithful to it. It centers us and reminds us of the purpose of our lives- ultimately to do the will of God and become as fully human and unique as God created us to be. Sanctified in Christ, our communal vision is to continue the work of taking away the sin of the world. "Here we are, Lord, we come to do your will."

Blessings, Fr. Jim

Saint of the Day: Agnes of Rome January 21

Foster-sister of Saint Emerentiana. At age 12 or 13 Agnes was ordered to sacrifice to pagan gods and lose her virginity by rape. She was taken to a Roman temple to Minerva (Athena), and when led to the altar, she made the Sign of the Cross. She was threatened, then tortured when she refused to turn against God. Several young men presented themselves, offering to marry her, whether from lust or pity is not known. She said that to do so would be an insult to her heavenly Spouse, that she would keep her consecrated virginity intact, accept death, and see Christ. Martyr. Mentioned in first Eucharistic prayer. On her feast day two lambs are blessed at her church in Rome, Italy and then their wool is woven into the palliums (bands of white wool) which the pope confers on archbishops as symbol of their jurisdiction. Died: beheaded and burned, or tortured and stabbed to death, or stabbed in the throat (sources vary) on 21 January 254 or 304 (sources vary) at Rome, Italy buried beside the Via Nomentana in Rome

Ask A Franciscan: Can ashes be scattered? The funeral of John F. Kennedy, Jr., Carolyn Bessette Kennedy and Lauren Bessette led to some initial, inaccurate reports. Reporters on ships at a distance incorrectly assumed that the ashes had been scattered. In fact, containers holding the ashes were dropped overboard. The Church expects entombment of the ashes in a conventional grave, a mausoleum or a columbarium (cemetery niche for the container). The Order of Christian Funerals approved for the dioceses of the United States by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and the Holy See contains an alternate prayer for cremated remains. That prayer says, "My friends, as we prepare to bury (entomb) the ashes of our brother (sister)...." Later it continues, "Comfort us today with the words of your promise as we return the ashes of our brother (sister) to the earth." The Guidelines for Christian Burial in the Catholic Church, prepared by the Liturgy Advisory Committee of the National Catholic Cemetery Conference, state, "Unless otherwise directed by the diocesan bishop, the cremated remains should never be scattered or disposed of in any manner other than a dignified interment or entombment." Burial at sea is permitted for a body or a person's ashes. Federal law prohibits such burials less than three nautical miles from land. Regulations of the Environmental Protection Agency specify that "cremated remains shall be buried in or on ocean waters."

Father Pat McCloskey, OFM

Información de comunidad Español

Hay varias formas en que podemos interpretar el significado del "Cordero de Dios" al que se refiere Juan el Bautista al principio del evangelio actual. Uno es el sacrificio de Jesús en la cruz como expiación por los pecados humanos. Otra es como una declaración de fe en la presencia real de Jesús en la Eucaristía. Pero hay otras formas de interpretar la declaración de Juan.

Juan proclamó que Jesús no quitaría los "pecados", el plural implicando los pecados o fallas de cada uno de nosotros, sino el singular "pecado del mundo", implicando la sanación de divisiones y el distanciamiento de la humanidad de Dios. ¡La traducción marca una gran diferencia! Otro problema de traducción es escuchar a Juan llamar a Jesús el "cordero" de Dios; la única vez en los Evangelios que alguien llamó a Jesús cordero - y esa imagen suave es impactante vieniendo de Juan el Bautista, el profeta incendiario. Algunos estudiosos afirman que el uso de la palabra "cordero" por parte de Juan proviene de la palabra aramia traducida como niño, niño o sirviente. Sea cual sea la palabra que elijamos, connota a alguien amable y casi categóricamente incapaz de violencia.

Esta última connotación coincide bien con lo que Isaías dice sobre el siervo de Dios: un siervo de las costas y de pueblos lejanos - de todo el mundo. El siervo podría ser Cristo, Israel o cualquiera elegido para ser la luz de Dios para las naciones - o todos ellos. El siervo confía en la fuerza de Dios, revela la gloria de Dios, trae al pueblo de Dios a casa y ofrece salvación a toda la tierra. Es toda una vocación - se da incluso antes de nacer.

La oración que el salmo de hoy nos invita a orar con Jesús el siervo es una oración ideal para discernir una vocación y mantenernos fieles a ella. Nos centra y nos recuerda el propósito de nuestras vidas: en última instancia, cumplir la voluntad de Dios y llegar a ser tan plenamente humanos y únicos como Dios nos creó para ser. Santificados en Cristo, nuestra visión comunitaria es continuar la labor de eliminar el pecado del mundo. "Aquí estamos, Señor, venimos a hacer tu voluntad."

Paz, Padre Jim

Niños menores de 18 años no deben quedarse sin supervisión en el Salón Parroquial. Se han roto varios objetos que no pertenecen a la Iglesia, además nuestros baños del pasillo han sido maltratados. Las reparaciones son costosas y la mayoría se pueden evitar. Por favor, trate el Salón Parroquial como trataría su propio hogar. Es un espacio compartido por muchos. Bendiciones.

Levantaos, nobles y campesinos; María invita a todos, ricos y pobres, justos y pecadores, a entrar en la cueva de Belén, a adorar y besar los pies de su hijo recién nacido...
